East Hampton, NY - Egg tossing, foot racing, potato sack racing, egg hunting, face painting and a day of family fun unfolded on The Green in Montauk as The Montauk Chamber of Commerce held its 2nd Annual Eggstravaganza on Saturday.

Included in the festivities were Laraine Creegan, Executive Director of the Montauk Chamber, along with the event's co-sponsor, Montauk's Candied Anchor, owned by Jillian Rennar.

Delia Rudolph and Sushil Sinha painted faces and Kristy Schopper supervised the Egg Hunt, which was divided into three age groups.

"Bunny Tails" was enjoyed by the Bruno, Stuckart, Kuneth and Noll Families, while Charlotte Vickers and Cierra Quintela became experts at the Egg Toss game. London Rosiere of Camp SoulGrow forgot her bunny ears, so camper Abigail Martell helped her out.

Rowan Levine, Lara Doering, Adaire and Estefania Contreras readied their baskets for The Hunt.

Also in attendance were Charlene Kenny, Amber Roberts, Casey Staubitser, of Town & Country Real Estate's new Montauk office, Matthew Meehan, Chris Kiesewetter, and Mark Assogna.

Two of the East Hampton Town Police Department's finest, P.O. Grace Peterson and P.O. Frank Sokolowski were onhand for the fun assignment of the day and posed with the Easter Bunny.

Peyton and Bryce Prado went home with bubbles and eggs. The Easter Bunny wasn't the only animal in attendance — Lauren Swartz brought pooches "Moby" and Mackenzie".
